

Inspiring Early Childhood Leadership:

A Three Part Series with Susan MacDonald, M.Ed.

Inspiring Early Childhood Leadership explores how leaders can find new and empowering ways to adapt to the evolving world of early childhood education. Research into the immense, life-long value of high quality early childhood education has created a wave of reforms designed to increase the quality of education in early childhood programs. The research and its many resulting initiatives are aligned with the field's long-standing commitment to provide quality education and care to all children. Inspiring Early Childhood Leadership is a unique workshop series that integrates well-researched inspirational and motivational leadership techniques with the current standards for high quality early education and care.
